Public Law Care and Adoption

Sarah represents parents, Local Authorities and Guardians at all levels. She has significant experience in cases involving serious sexual abuse and non accidental injury.

Private Law Children and Domestic Abuse

Sarah has longstanding experience in this field, and is often instructed in the more serious cases involving complex factual disputes, including domestic violence and abuse; independent expert evidence of psychological and psychiatric nature, and in cases where the children themselves are represented by their own Guardian. She also regularly represents parents on either side in applications for permission to remove a child permanently from the jurisdiction to live abroad.
